ECONOMIC BULLETIN FOR ASIA AND THE PACIFIC
INDEX OF ARTICLES

The articles published in the Economic Bulletin, since Vol. XXVII, are listed below;*

Vol. XXVII, No. 1, June 1976
- Evaluation in planning and policy-making
- Development planning, appraisal and performance evaluation with special reference to the Philippines
- Use of social indicators in development planning and appraisal in the Philippines
- The institutional constraints on technology transfer to small farmers
- The economic status of women: an analytical framework
- Women labour-force participation and incomes in three Asian countries
- Female labour-force participation and earning in Singapore
- Women's contribution to household income and structure of women's employment in Korea

Vol. XXVII, No. 2, December 1976
- Interrelationship between population growth and development
- Territorial indicators and national planning: a report on country studies in Thailand and the Philippines
- Project monitoring in Bangladesh
- Constructing historical unit value indexes for Hong Kong's foreign trade
- Private foreign investment
- Study of Japanese management development practices in manufacturing and non-manufacturing activities
- Issues in water development decisions: a discussion paper
- Indigenous irrigation institutions and irrigation development in Southeast Asia: current knowledge and needed research

Vol. XXVIII, No. 1/2, June/December 1977
(combined issue)
- Review of progress of the Second United Nations Development Decade in the Asian and Pacific region
- Review of education in the Asian and Pacific region in the Second United Nations Development Decade
- Educated unemployment in Asia with special reference to Bangladesh, India and Sri Lanka

Vol. XXIX, No. 1, June 1978
- The international economic crises of the 1970s: country responses
- Farmers and middlemen: aspects of agricultural marketing in Thailand
- Main sources of inflation in developing ESCAP countries
- Monetary policy and domestic saving in developing ESCAP countries
- Urbanization and migration in Southeast Asia

Vol. XXIX, No. 2, December 1978
- Development poles: do they exist?
- Afghanistan in the world economy
- The impact of the international economic crisis on the Indonesian economy
- The Iranian economy: oil and development in the first half of the 1970s
- Transnational corporations in the consumer electronics industry of developing ESCAP countries
- The use of aerial photographs and self-help surveys in integrated marginal settlements improvement projects
- Role of rural women community life: a case study from India

Vol. XXX, No. 1, June 1979
- A comparative study of land reform in south Asia
- Approach to rural development in south Asia
- An unfinished story: rural development in south Asia
- Public enterprise as an instrument of policy in antipoverty strategies in south Asia
- Some reflections on income distribution and poverty in Asia with special reference to India

Vol. XXX, No. 2, December 1979
- Planning for improved equity in ASEAN, Hong Kong and the Republic of Korea
- The impact of public policies on income distribution in Peninsular Malaysia
- Public policy and income distribution in the Philippines
- An assessment of the distributive impact of government policies in Thailand

Vol. XXXI, No. 1, June 1980
- Indian economic performance and prospects
- New patterns and strategies of development for Sri Lanka
- Pakistan's development pattern and prospects
- Nepal's economy in retrospect and its prospects for the 1980s
- Prospects for the economic development of Bangladesh in the 1980s
- Regional economic co-operation in south Asia: legacy and prospects

Vol. XXXI, No. 2, December 1980
- Prospects for the Chinese economy in the 1980s
- The Indonesian economy in the 1980s
- Malaysian social and economic development strategies for the 1980s
- The South Pacific islands: patterns and strategies of economic development, 1975-1990

Vol. XXXII, No. 1, June 1981
- Interrelations among population, resources, environment and development
- Economics and sociology of alternative energy sources
- Programmes of environmental improvement at the community level
- Integrated approaches to water resources management in rural areas

Vol. XXXII, No. 2, December 1981
- Development, equity and freedom
- The International Development Strategy: implications for regional and subregional strategies
- Planning against poverty: wage data as a tool
- Energy supply transition in oil-importing developing ESCAP countries: scenarios and organizational structures
- Energy transition through demand management: long-term strategies for policy imperatives
- Trade between developing countries of the ESCAP region and socialist countries of eastern Europe: current trends and long-term perspectives

Vol. XXXIII, No. 1, June 1982
- IMF conditionality and the low income countries
- Transnational corporations in the ASEAN region: a survey of major issues
- Determinants of direct foreign investment with reference to the specific role of the foreign exchange rate: the Japanese case in Thailand
- Aspects of fiscal policy in China
- The fourth Malaysia plan: Evolution and evaluation
- Strategies for the promotion of small-scale enterprises in the developing ESCAP region
- Containerization of shipping services in the developing ESCAP region: progress, problem and issues

Vol. XXXIII, No. 2, December 1982
- A preliminary review and appraisal of the implementation of the International Development Strategy for the Third United Nations Development Decade as it relates to the ESCAP region
- International financial resource flows and the developing ESCAP countries
- Industrialization trends in the developing ESCAP region
- Relationship between poverty and economic development: a quantitative analysis
- The role of rural credit in agrarian reform with special reference to India

* For Economic Bulletin issues prior to vol. XXVII, 1976, please refer to this index in vol. XXX, 1979 or to the Development Planning Division, ESCAP.